ABOUT NICHOLAS

“Art is about doing and not thinking too much.” (Nicholas Smith). Many talented people stop at the thinking process and never get to successfully completing their masterpieces.

Nicholas has a very practical and uncomplicated approach to life and art. He believes that art is there for everybody; “it must meet the challenges of Ubuntu”. Artists cannot survive without knowing and meeting the needs of people and “there is nothing more fulfilling than seeing someone enjoy your creations.”

Nicholas describes his SmartPots creations as trendy, affordable and durable. “I designed the pots to fit into any environment and to be in total harmony with their surroundings.” They can be used in an informal garden or at the entrance of a corporate building. People can create “a piece of paradise” in the pots or fill them with bamboo. Nicholas does not rely on complicated designs; he gets his inspiration from the perfect lines, shapes and complete balance of nature. Nature is the perfect teacher.

“I have so many plans, many of which are taking shape now, and even more ideas for the future. I hope that I will be able to work until my last day on earth.” To merge the talent and enthusiasm of Nicholas Smith with the quality and craftsmanship that is inherent in every SmartPot is a winning combination.
